

Laremy Tunsil

OT Ole Miss Jr.

Height: 6'5" Weight: 310 Arms: 34"

Combine: 40 yd Dash: DNP Bench: 34 reps Vert: 28.5"

Pros:

- Explosive athlete with great size
- Very quick hands and feet
- Good kick slide, mirrors speed rushers
- Burner who stresses defense vertically
- Plays with intensity and urgency
- Plays under control
- Stays in football position at all times
- Stalks linebackers well
- Deliberate, efficient hand placement
- Very good balance

Cons:

- Not a mauler in the run game
- Needs to snap hips into block for power
- Can lose patience at times
- Struggles with power rushers at times
- Has some injury concerns to look into

Laremy Tunsil doesn't do a lot of things wrong. Because of that, he is the top prospect in the 2016 NFL draft. His feet are lightning-quick and he's got the fundamentals to come in and start right away on the left side. That being said, we have to understand what type of player Tunsil is. He's not a complete player who can maul in the run game. He is a good run blocker and uses his feet and speed to get in the way and stalk linebackers, but he won't collapse the line with overwhelming power. That's not a problem for most teams who will ask him to shut down pass rushers and protect the blindside for the next 10 years. He can do that and will do that, barring injury.