Will Fuller makes his living down the field as a receiver. He's blazing fast and runs like a deer with or without the ball in his hands. He does a great job setting up corners with multiple gears and kicking in the afterburners when he heads down field. He does a great job getting in and out of cuts and can gain separation with his route running. His hands are only average and he has a bad habit of trapping the ball against his body. He also is very small with shorter arms than you'd like. Fuller most likely won't be able to add any more weight either. What you see is what you get with Fuller. He'll be a great second option but won't be able to carry a team.
