

TRE'DAVIOUS WHITE

LSU

Height: 5'11"      Weight: 192      Arms: 32"

Combine:

40 yd Dash: 4.42

3 Cone: 6.90

20 yd Shuttle: 4.32

Vert: 32"

| Pros:   | Cons:  |
|--|---|
| <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>- Long arms for frame</li> <li>- Very open hips, can turn and run well</li> <li>- Quick feet and good speed</li> <li>- Very sound zone corner, passes man off well</li> <li>- Patient defender who doesn't bite on fakes</li> <li>- Explodes to ball when he reads QB</li> <li>- Does a great job making play on the ball</li> <li>- Follows receivers like a shadow</li> </ul> | <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>- Plays a shade too high, hips don't sink low</li> <li>- Speed is good but not much above average</li> <li>- Doesn't like to tackle, at all</li> <li>- Doesn't always go for pick</li> <li>- Respects speed a bit too much</li> <li>- Just good acceleration</li> <li>- Lacks functional strength</li> </ul> |

Summary: Senior corner Tre'Davious White played extensively during his time at LSU, starting all but two games in four years in Baton Rouge. The senior was an All-SEC first team selection and a captain for his final two seasons for the Tigers. His time in college was well-spent, as he is one of the most well-schooled cover corners in the draft. White is like a shadow covering receivers on the perimeter and excels in both man and zone coverage. In man he has very open hips and quick feet to mirror receivers and is patient, letting the receiver dictate his steps. He does a great job making plays on the ball in the air, but seems to prefer knocking the ball away instead of going for the pick. In zone he does a fantastic job following receivers through his zone but not over-committing and being out of position. White also does a fantastic job diagnosing and attacking the ball when in zone. The issues for White come with his tackling, or lack thereof. White shows very little interest in tackling backs in the flat or fighting through blocks to the ball carrier. He will slow play runners back into the teeth of the defense and can set the edge well enough as a corner, but won't go out of his way to make a physical play. He also lacks the top end speed and explosiveness to be a higher draft pick in this draft. He also lacks the physicality to disrupt strong receivers at the line. He's not going to put hands on guys at the line, but he'll do everything else to stop them from getting the ball. He's still very good and it takes an exceptionally speedy or strong receiver to beat him, but he doesn't have all the tools. For a team that wants a pure cover corner, Tre'Davious White is a quality prospect worthy of a first round pick.